

Why Not Let Your Next Corset Be a "Warner's" Model?

THERE are all kinds of corsets for women of average size, but to our mind there is only one good corset, and that is a model selected from Warner's Rust-Proof lines.

Yes, we will grant you that this is a strong statement to make, but it isn't often that we can say with authority that a corset will shape fashionably and fit comfortably. There are models that shape fashionably that are mighty uncomfortable.

Warner's not only shape fashionably but fit comfortably, and we not only guarantee this, but also that the garment will not rust, break or tear, and wear as long as you will care to have it.

GEN. JOSE M. MIER SUCCEEDS TREVINO

Aged Commander of Third Military Zone Retires to Private Life in El Paso.

Monterey, Mex., Nov. 4.—Gen. Geronimo Trevino has turned over the affairs of the third military zone to Gen. Jose M. Mier, who arrived here to relieve Gen. Trevino. The transfer was made in a few moments, there being no changes made in the staff at present. Capt. Luis M. Rivera is still chief of staff.

Gen. Trevino, who has served his country in a military way for many years, has retired to private life and will never again enter military affairs. For some time past he has been quite ill and it was thought a few days ago he would not live, but the sturdy old man withstood the attack and is now improving steadily. The condition of Gen. Trevino's health and his advanced age forced him to resign from active duties.

Gen. Jose Mier, who has come to this city to take charge of the third military zone, vacated by the resignation of Gen. Trevino, is well known here, having been sent here as governor of the state of Nuevo Leon by Gen. Porfirio Diaz at the time Gen. Bernardo Reyes was deported to Europe. Gen. Mier has also held important positions in the army in other points and his welcome back to Monterey has been cordial on every side.

NEGRO SALOON MAN KILLED IN JUAREZ

Joe Smiley, a negro saloon keeper in Juarez, was instantly killed in his place of business Saturday afternoon, when a pistol, alleged to have been in the hands of Stevens Caldwell, another negro, was accidentally discharged. The bullet entered on the left side of Smiley's head and penetrated his brain. Caldwell was placed in the Juarez jail.

Mamie Smiley, the surviving wife, who was fined $200 on a vagrancy charge in the corporation court several weeks ago, and ordered to leave the city, phoned the police station at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon asking for permission to bring the body of her husband to El Paso for burial. The request was granted by police chief I. N. Davis.

Smiley, the dead negro, about a year ago, according to the police, was connected with the "hot" bar at the intersection of Overland and Third streets. At that time he was fined $200 on a vagrancy charge and ordered to leave the city. The police say that he moved to Juarez, where he engaged in the saloon business. Arrangements are now being made to have his body brought over to El Paso.

DESERTERS FIGHT WITH FEDERAL FORCE

Monterey, Mexico, Nov. 4.—Lieut. Montalvo and sub-lieut. Pesceto, the only two officers who were not captured after their getaway last month in automobiles, are at the head of rebels in the mountains southeast of Monterey. They attacked Laguna de Sanchez and met a hot resistance from the federal soldiers from there. It is reported that several rebels were killed and some of their horses captured.

Laguna de Sanchez is in the municipality of Arramberg and Montalvo and Pesceto are concentrating their desperado forces in the Esperanza hills, where they have over 50 men under arms. In the fight at Laguna de Sanchez, one federal corporal Porras, of the Eighth cavalry, was killed.

MAINTAIN REFUGEES LEAVING EL PASO

Conditions So Bad in Mexico That None Wish to Return.

Junius Romney and O. P. Brown, of the Mormon church organization, are expected home this evening from New Mexico, where they have been making an inspection of a number of available locations for the establishment of a Mormon colony until the Mexican colonies can again be occupied. As soon as a suitable tract can be obtained, the remaining Mormon refugees will leave El Paso and occupy the land.

Many of the refugees are leaving for Tucson, Ariz., Hachita, N. M., and Salt Lake for the winter. The following have obtained transportation from the government:

To Tucson—Edith D. Edith and Mary Carson; Abram Jones; Benjamin, Martha and Viola Judd; Patsy McDonald; Lucy M. Huth; James Nelson. To Benson, Ariz.—S. H. Johnson. To Buebe, Ariz.—Pearl Davis. To Safford, Ariz.—Mary Elton. To Pima, Ariz.—William F. Elton and Ray Cluff; Warren R. Whetton; George Haws.

To Jaynes, Ariz.—Minerva, Su and Melba Johnson. To Thatcher, Ariz.—Eva Spillbury, Robert and Emma Beecroft, Thomas A. and Etta E. Lusk.

To Hachita, N. M.—A. W. Hardy, Joseph F. Haws, Warren E. Hardy, John C. Hays, Henry Randolph, Minnie, Ernest V. Cluff, John Wall, Milton Allard, Lorin Jones, Nello Beecroft, Julian and Lucy Lusk; Donaldson, E. W. Johnson, Jr., Edith Huth, J. H. and Ruth Patterson.

To Silver City, N. M.—John C. Sosa, Clarence, Martha and Viola Williams.

To Dolores, N. M.—J. E. Steiner, Pratt, Julia, Martha and Beth Thurber.

To Fairview, Utah—John H. Rowley, Emerald W. Stout.

To Logan, Utah—Donald C. Black.

To Salt Lake City, Utah—Eva and Harty Cluff.

To Hanson, Okla.—Thos. B. Sarah K. Lord, Henry Randolph, Minnie, Basile, Francis and Nora Allen.

To Los Angeles, Cal.—Gaskell, Anna, Maurice, Douglas, Miles and H. H. Romney.

To Idaho Falls, Idaho—Lorin Johnson.

To Clint, Tex.—David, Cenna, Irvin, A. F. and Jope Hawkins; Heber, Christina; Dorville, Grant, Thora and Irvin Davis; Cina Thompson.

Conditions Are Bad.

H. E. Bowman says many are in El Paso once more. They found it very undesirable to live in Chihuahua under existing conditions. They are in close proximity, but there is very little fighting. Rojas and his army, who have been occupying Chihuahua, have moved down on the canyon.

D. M. Spillbury secured his release from the rebels by promising to pay his captors two sacks of sugar, 10 sacks of flour, and $500 cash. Mr. Spillbury says the colonists were successful in collecting and selling quite a number of carloads of wheat. It was shipped to Chihuahua. When they were gathering the wheat some of the natives looked on with disapproval and sometimes they expressed their disapproval in unmistakable terms. For instance, the colonists examined Mrs. Smith's bin and her wheat was in good condition, but next day when they went to load it, it was all gone. It had changed its location in the night. Mr. Spillbury stored his wheat in Clawson's bin and when he went for it, the man living in Clawson's house threatened to call a policeman and have him arrested if he attempted to carry the wheat away. The general cry was: "We will live on it if you take away all of your wheat." The natives as a whole are making little effort to farm now. They are discouraged as they say that if they plant, the rebels will reap and they will be out their labor and their seed.

The natives are still stealing wheat and everything else that can be stolen from the Sonora colonists. Those dissatisfied colonists who are making trips back into Mexico are, one by one, becoming convinced that to leave Mexico to the Mexicans is the only course open to foreigners at the present.

REFUGEES SAY 150
BRIDGES ARE BURNED

American Railroad Men Make Trip From Pearson on Hauden; Are Stopped By Salazar.

Because the Mexico North Western Railroad company would not let them have a handcar, two engineers and a conductor of that road took one last Wednesday at Pearson and made the trip to Juarez, arriving at the border Sunday afternoon at 1:30. They say 150 bridges are burned between Juarez and Coyote.

The men who made the trip were J. J. Roberts and I. L. Mabry, engineers, and C. Osterhout, conductor, and two Mexican laborers.

They stocked their car with provisions to last a week and at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, left Pearson, arriving at Coyote, 64 kilometers south of Juarez, the next morning; they were held up by Gen. Inez Salazar, the rebel leader. He did not search them, nor would he allow any of his men to molest them or their provisions. However, he held them for five hours while, he said, he was making preparations to march on Casas Grandes. With him he had 200 men, though he told the Americans that he had 200 more men back in the hills.

When he had completed preparations for his march he told the Americans to go, assured them that they would not be molested but they would find difficulty in passing burned bridges. This was later borne out. Coyote was found about 150 bridges burned out, they say.

However, not a rebel was seen en route. But the men were warned that they were to be shot if they did not notify all linemen and bridge workers attempting to repair the North Western that they must desert or the rebel would shoot them.

CONDITIONS BAD BELOW THE BORDER

Refugees arriving here today say conditions remain unimproved below the border at this point. Antonio Rojas has about 500 rebels camping in the American settlement of Pacheco. The Americans, who came from the various Mormon colonies and other American settlements in the Casas Grandes district, were compelled to move overland to Hachita, N. M.

Work has begun in reconstructing the Mexican North Western railway, which road rebels have burned 60 bridges between Juarez and Casas Grandes. American railway officials agreed to attempt to rebuild the road again on promise of Gen. Tracy Aubert that full protection would be given. The work train to day was guarded by 150 federal soldiers. All railway traffic below this point has been paralyzed for nearly a month.

SPIRIT OF REVOLT SPREADS IN VERACRUZ

Veracruz, Mex., Nov. 4.—The revolution spirit in the northern part of the state of Veracruz is on the increase. Many small bands are causing much mischief in the rich oil district.

Col. Diaz Ordaz, chief lieutenant of Gen. Felix Diaz, will be tried by court-martial in V. M. or two. It is believed he will be condemned to death.
